Day 1- Nantodo

Day 2- Nantodo Fig Tree Camp

Day 3 - Ngai Suisui

Day 4- Nagaratat

Day 1- Nantodo

Our first camp is located at the base of the towering rock pinnacle called Nantodo. Our friendly team will welcome you with a cold drink followed by a delicious lunch, before a short rest and time to settle in. As the day cools we will climb Nantodo, taking in the breathtaking view of the Mathews Range and Karisia Hills with a drink in hand as the sun sets. We will look out for all sorts of wildlife as the day cools including Gerenuk, Ostrich and Elephant. Back at camp hot showers await us before drinks around the campfire and a sit down dinner under the stars.

Day 2- Nantodo Fig Tree Camp

After a light breakfast we will set off on our walk to the Ewaso river. During our walk we may encounter Samburu ladies coming to water with their donkeys as well as warriors herding their goats and camels through the rugged landscape. The dry country birdlife is varied and surprisingly diverse. We will also look for Desert Warthogs as well as Klipspringers on the rocky ledges. After arriving at camp we can enjoy a dip in the river to cool off and a buffet lunch under a shady acacia. In the evening we will take a stroll up the sand river looking out for interesting birds or reptiles as well as the shy Greater Kudu. Returning to camp we will have showers and drinks by the campfire with dinner under the stars.

Day 3- Ngai Suisui

We will be woken early with steaming water in our basins and strong coffee and tea, setting off on our walk before sunrise. We will start winding up the sand river looking out for Klipspringers, Verreaux Eagle-Owls, Leopards and Elephants. We will leave the riverbed after a while beginning to ascend the slowly rising land, and arriving at our campsite at Ngai Suisui. As the day cools we can climb up to the shoulder of the Ngai Suisui pinnacle to enjoy sundowners with a spectacular 360 view. We then return to camp for a sit down dinner under the stars.

Day 4- Nagaratat

Today we will walk down a dramatic valley to the river and a serene spot called Nagaratat. The landscape is spectacular and we will walk along the rivers edge under some enormous Neutonia Trees, watching out for hippos in the deep pools and the shy crocodiles before climbing out of the valley up a rocky river course where the fig trees cling to rocks and Klipspringers perch high on the rocks above. We break out of the valley and on to some rolling country where we will look for Elephant and possibly the peculiar Pancake Tortoises that live in cracks in the rocks. From camp we will hopefully see the local herds bringing their livestock to drink and in the evening meander along the river looking for whatever we might find.
