

DAY – Olduvai Gorges

Revealed to the world thanks to the works of Louis Leakeys and his wife, this site encapsulates nearly 2 million years of History.

In other words, Olduvai Gorges are an open book over the history of Humanity.

Description of the outing:

Even if the walk can be done any time of the day, we do recommend leaving early morning, when the sun is still gentle! Perfect departure point: Olduvai Camp.

A Massai guide and an armed ranger will lead you to vast plains before to walk down a steep track.

Step by step, different layers of the rock will reveal themselves and unveil, for some parts, rich areas of fossils. Deep down the gorges you will come across a stream, dry most of the time. The second half of the trek consists in walking on this stream bed up to the other side of the gorge.

You do feel Humanity; Homo Erectus standing for the very first time is just by your side.

A car will wait for you in front of Olduvai Museum. The visit can be a good way to get deeper knowledge on Olduvai site as well as the main discoveries which took place there.

Duration of the walk: approx. 2h, 2h30
