CATCH THE EXCITEMENT

Zanzibar is home to some of the best big game and deep sea fishing opportunities in the Indian Ocean. Join Fishing Zanzibar for a day out big game fishing in the waters of Zanzibar, Latham Island, Mafia Island, Pemba Island and the famous Pemba channel. Their deep sea fishing charter boats are fully rigged and ready to take you out for an unforgettable fishing experience.

Fishing Zanzibar practises fishing by trolling a combination of artificial lures, natural dead baits as well as by live baiting. The skippers and crew are also experienced at all disciplines of fishing, whether your requirements be spinning, fly fishing, jigging, popping for giant trevally, power chumming or drifting with baits.

FISH

There are no less than six different types of billfish in Zanzibar's Pemba channel just north of Nungwi and your chances of catching at least three different types in a season are really good. Billfish such as striped, black and blue marlin as well as the acrobatic and dazzling sailfish and elusive short bill spearfish are found in these crystal waters. Zanzibar's waters are also home to various shark species; mako, tiger, thresher and hammerhead. All season you will find dorado, barracuda, yellow fin tuna, wahoo, king and queen mackerel, and kingfish (trevally). These waters also host lesser game fish such as bonito tuna, skipjack tuna and rainbow runner which provide endless hours of adrenalin filled game fishing.

FISHING SEASON

The seasons take place with the tuna season running from August to October, and then from November to March is the billfish, marlin and sailfish season. The main striped marlin season takes place from December through to March whilst large black and blue marlins are caught from September to December. In between seasons you will still find game fish; large tuna can reach up to 100 kg's, with many schools of 50 kg tuna still migrating through Zanzibar's waters.
