

Nasikia Mobile Migration Camp (Ndotu)

Overview

Located in the Ngorongoro Conservation Area, and along a freshwater stream connecting the Big Marsh and Lake Ndotu, this camp is ideally located for wildlife viewing. This position creates incredible viewing opportunities as the migration herds gather on the southern plains for their calving season from late-Jan to late-Feb each year.

The multiple land use philosophy of the area is to promote the co-existence of semi-nomadic Maasai and wildlife. It is also a unique area with the saline lakes of Lake Ndotu and Lake Masek, providing excellent feeding ground for Greater & Lesser Flamingo.
