

TSWALU

LOAPI TENTED CAMP

THE SPACE BELOW THE CLOUDS

Loapi Camp evokes the carefree, nomadic spirit of camping and a return to a true wilderness experience that is both private and exclusive.

The camp's six private tented safari homes in Bruwer Valley have elevated, unimpeded views south across the grassy plains to distant hills in the valley beyond. From one end to the other, the camp appears to float above the landscape in a conscious departure from the organic, grounded permanence of the Motse. Meaning 'the space below the clouds' in Setswana, Loapi signals a change of pace inspired by a new mood of carefree, nomadic living and the untamed spirit of camping. The light, modular design under canvas ensures a continuous connection to the environment, in tune with nature's rhythms. In embracing this true wilderness experience, guests have complete freedom to do whatever they want. Each home comes with a dedicated homathi, or butler, and a private chef. With a private vehicle, guide and tracker always at the ready, guests can choose to spend all day tracking some of the elusive species, visit nearby pans where resident lion prides converge, or take a picnic breakfast to the top of Bushman Hill where Hartmann's mountain zebra and kudu are often spotted. Most of all, Loapi provides the luxury of space and time to do nothing more than relax on the deck and gaze at the view, relishing the solitude and silence.

LOAPI AT A GLANCE

- Your private wilderness
- Surrounded by open arid savannah and wildlife in a valley of the Korannaberg mountains, with long views south
- No communal or shared guest areas or services
- Dedicated on-site butler and private chef
- Private vehicle, guide and tracker
- 6 individual tented safari homes for exclusive use, each operating as a micro camp
- 4 x one-bedroom homes
- 2 x two-bedroom homes
- Each home spaced at least 100 metres (330 feet) apart for privacy and seclusion
- One-bedroom home spans 303 square metres (3260 square feet)
- Two-bedroom home spans 433 square metres (4660 square feet)
- Spacious tented bedroom suite with indoor and outdoor showers (no bathtub)
- Each home incorporates spaces for coming together (dining & relaxation) and being apart (to retreat, rest or work)
- Plenty of shaded outdoor space for game viewing
- Full bar, including a collection of South African wines
- Fully equipped interactive kitchen
- Private study with wifi
- Outdoor daybeds for relaxation
- In-room spa treatments
- Plunge pool
- Fire pit