

THULAMELA RUINS

THE ANCIENT STONE CITADEL, RECENTLY NOMINATED FOR NATIONAL HERITAGE STATUS

Discover the ancient mysteries of Thulamela, a remarkable archaeological site that stands as a testament to the rich cultural heritage of southern Africa.

Perched high on a rugged hilltop just south of the Luvuvhu River, Thulamela was once a thriving kingdom, where royalty lived and governed over a prosperous community. As you walk among the remnants of stone walls and ancient structures, you'll be transported back to a time when this land was a hub of trade, culture, and spiritual significance.

Embrace the echoes of the past and uncover the stories that shaped this extraordinary civilization, all set against the breathtaking backdrop of large leadwoods and baobab trees.

Here are a few things to keep in mind:

The journey to Thulamela takes around 20 minutes

A good level of physical fitness is recommended, as you'll need to walk up a ridge to reach the ruins

The excursion requires a minimum of 2 guests and a maximum of 8 guests can participate

R350 per person

Enquire Now:

Email: reservations@returnafrica.com | Tel: +27 (0) 11 646 1391

