

TINTSWALO
AT SIANKABA

Facts & Information

Tintswalo at Siankaba is a tented treehouse island camp situated on two densely forested islands in the mighty Zambezi River, 49 km from Victoria Falls and 48 km from the Chobe National Park. Zambia is a country full of wonder, mirrored at Siankaba with a guest experience that centres around the local people who will truly engage, enlighten and delight you with that unique characteristic that each of the Tintswalo properties shares- Tintswalo at Siankaba has 'soul'.

Tintswalo at Siankaba evokes images of style and elegance in a truly African way. Subtle architecture blends with a backdrop of natural forest, creating an atmosphere of peace and tranquility. The tented treehouse island camp comprises of seven treehouse river tents raised above the ground in the tree canopy on the edge of the Zambezi River. All the treehouse river tents have en-suite Victorian baths and showers, double vanities, and a dressing table. Private balconies extend over the river, inviting guests to relax while viewing all that unfolds on the river and the riverbanks of neighbouring Zimbabwe.

It is a place of spectacular natural beauty and a haven for an astonishing variety of plant and birdlife. The treehouse river tents are linked by a winding, raised walkway, keeping guests safe while protecting the fragile riverine environment below. An expansive deck with lounge and dining areas overlooks the bush and a swimming pool with poolside loungers. One can enjoy educational nature walks within the island's forest and learn about the natural environment, including spectacular trees with medicinal properties. Guests may also take a cultural tour and visit the local communities.
