

EHLANE PLAINS CAMP - FACT SHEET 2019 - 2020

WHY STAY HERE

The Dream of a Star-Gazing safari...

Ehlane Plains Camp is established in the far eastern plains of the Serengeti, a remote and wildlife-filled pocket of the savannah. This is where the magic begins, this is where your dream of wild Africa comes alive. 'Ehlane' is a Zulu word which translates to 'wilderness'. Ehlane Plains has embraced just this 'wilderness' concept by introducing the first ever in the Serengeti plains, Star-Gazer sleep out platform exclusively adjacent to three tented suites which allow for guests to sleep out under a ceiling of star studded night skies. An impression that will last a lifetime!

It is a clear description of the extraordinary and newly accessible location which presents an unsurpassed display of predators and predator activity. It is here in the Soit le Motonyi region, far from the Serengeti transit areas, that you are able to find something wild and spectacular in this rough, unspoilt country.

The area teems with prides of lion, cheetah roaming, large packs of hyena and leopards confidently striding through their ranges. This exclusive expanse of the Serengeti is where the Acacia woodland borders the great savannah, attracting herbivore masses of elephant, giraffe, zebra, warthog and more.

The camp offers eight tents designed to merge with the eco-system, all under canvas and all with clear vistas of the wilderness ahead. The camp is open, no borders or rails, the wildlife comes and goes. Stay alert, eyes open. The thrill of the safari from the silver screen is here. Each tented suite is spaced for privacy, but prepared for safety – this 'Ehlane' needs no further introduction.

NASIKIA MOBILE MIGRATION CAMP (KOGATENDE) FACT SHEET 2019 - 2020

WHY STAY HERE

01 June—31 Oct

Serengeti National Park is generally recognised as the major wildlife reserve of the world. This National Park is particularly known for the migration of about one million White Bearded Wildebeests and Plains zebras viewed in their hundreds of thousands in the northern areas around Kogatende, which offers close proximity to the gauntlet of the infamous northern river crossings.

Over millennia the wildebeest follow the needed rains and use the Serengeti ecosystem with its mosaic of grasslands savannas and Acacia trees to their advantage. Anyone who has an opportunity to see nearly two million animals on the move, may be touched by the magic of this place. The camp is located in the central northern Serengeti as an excellent and affordable leap to the far northern areas near the Mara River and down the excellent feeding pastures around the immediate interior.

NASIKIA MOBILE MIGRATION CAMP

NASIKIA MOBILE MIGRATION CAMP (NDUTU) - FACT SHEET 2019 - 2020

WHY STAY HERE

Ndutu: 01Dec—31Mar

Located in the Ngorongoro Conservation, bordering the southern Serengeti plains, Ndutu thrives with wildlife especially December through to March annually with the Great wildebeest Migration.

The multiple land use philosophy in the area is to maintain the peaceful co-existence of human and wildlife in a natural and traditional setting. Man and his ancestors have lived in the Ngorongoro ecosystem for more than three million years.

Lake Ndutu and Lake Masek form shallow basins where water accumulates from the nearby areas of slightly higher altitude. The water in both lakes are extremely saline, too saline for human consumption. Lake Ndutu comes alive with animals during the migration because it is surrounded by the Ndutu woodlands and the short grass plains, which provide ample cover and food, especially during the calving season between late January to late February.

Ndutu is the place to be and Nasikia Mobile Migration Camp is in the heart of the action!
