

Experience the Magic of Mana Pools in Zimbabwe

unforgettable Memories Await with Bushlife Safaris

Established in 1997, Bushlife Safaris is proudly owned and passionately operated by Nick and his wife, Desiree Murray, who have curated a stunning, award-winning collection of safari experiences for travellers. These include their flagship Vundu Camp, situated on the banks of the mighty Zambezi River, the cozy and intimate Little Vundu Camp, the thrilling and adventurous Ruwesi Canoe Trail, and lastly, the rugged and raw Chitake Mobile Camp.

Immerse yourself in unparalleled wildlife encounters and up-close photographic opportunities with painted wolves, elephants, lion, plainsgame and an array of colorful birdlife - all set against the backdrop of Mana Pools' breathtaking landscape.

Whether you embark on a game drive, go on a walking safari, engage in some fishing on a serene island, or lazily drift down the Zambezi River on a canoe or motorboat, be prepared to indulge your senses in a sensory overload and a truly authentic African adventure.

Owing to their intimate knowledge of the area, Bushlife Safaris' acclaimed team of guides can safely guide guests to encounter wildlife up close and personal. Meet Tusker, the iconic and awe-inspiring elephant bull, or the legendary Dynasties painted wolves pack, which rose to prominence in the BBC Earth series, featuring Sir David Attenborough, on which Nick Murray served as the lead guide.

Conserving Africa's Wildlife for Future Generations

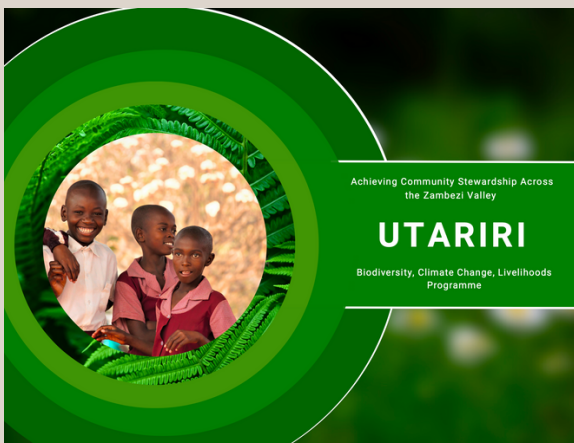

Bushlife Safaris are very active members in the Mana Pools National Park community and, Nick and Desiree are passionate about wildlife conservation in Zimbabwe. Bushlife Safaris have a full-circle approach to conservation and as such, have a fundraising partner, an "on the ground" anti-poaching unit and participate in local communities through high-level partnerships

Bushlife Conservancy is our funding partner and their small team does amazing work raising funds for conservation, primarily in the Zambezi River Valley of Zimbabwe and Zambia. They are a section 501(c)(3) registered charity in the United States.

The Bushlife Support Unit is our “boots-on-the-ground” team and anti-poaching patrols are deployed daily in vehicles and boats. Countless arrests have been made, subsequently saving the lives of animals in Mana Pools National Park.

As one of the local partners of the Swedish Utariri Programme, which operates in the Zambezi Valley, Bushlife Safaris is primarily helping reduce human-wildlife conflict through education and helping with sustainable business ventures that uplift local communities, as well as relocating wild animals if required.
