

What to Expect on Safari: A Day at Vundu Camp

Rise and shine, for your day in the wild is about to begin...

As the sun peeks over the horizon, the stillness of the African savannah is broken by a gentle "knock, knock" at 5:30am. It's your guide, ensuring that the paths are clear of any wandering giants such as elephants or hippos.

At 6:00am, head over to the Main Area where a delightful continental breakfast is served at the fire pit. Enjoy freshly-made coffee or tea as you fill up on the delectable treats. Fuelled up and ready to explore, your first activity of the day awaits.

The activities offered are tailored to your interests and the weather conditions. A morning game drive may be on the cards, where you'll have the chance to spot the elusive painted wolves or walk up to the iconic elephant bull, Tusker. During your adventure, your guide will find a shady spot to enjoy some homemade muffins and a refreshing cup of tea or coffee.

At midday, as you return to camp for a light lunch. A variety of fresh salads and freshly baked bread and rolls are on the menu to keep you going. And when the sun is high and the wildlife is resting, it's time for you to also take a Safari Siesta - a time to recharge your camera batteries and catch up on some well-deserved rest.

As the sun begins to set, your guide will find the perfect vantage point for you to enjoy the awe-inspiring sunset, with a refreshing sundowner in hand. The end of another exhilarating day in the wild.

Upon your return to camp, freshen up after a day of adventure, or head straight to the main area, where bar snacks are served. Here, guests and guides alike come together to share stories and photographs of the day's events.

Dinner is served between 7:30pm and 8pm, providing a well-deserved opportunity to indulge in some delectable cuisine under the starry sky. As the night draws to a close, activities and schedules are discussed over dinner, ensuring that the following day's adventure is tailored to your preferences.
